

PRESS RELEASE

Brussels, 9 November 2023

Industrial technology company Smiths Group joins Orgalim

We are pleased to welcome Smiths Group as our newest corporate member. Smiths is a global leader in manufacturing smarter engineering solutions for mission critical applications. Its products include industrial seals, precision security scanners, advanced electrical components for enhanced connectivity, and high-performance fluid management solutions. These are used in a wide range of sectors including aerospace, energy, general industrial, and safety and security.

Smiths joins the ranks of recent Orgalim corporate members recognising the importance of collaboration among high tech manufacturing leaders to shape the future of manufacturing policies in Europe. Smiths also shares our members' commitment to delivering a Net Zero world.

Malte Lohan, Director General, Orgalim, said, "We are delighted to welcome Smiths to Orgalim. Their membership further strengthens our capabilities to collectively shape the policies and regulations that will influence our industries in the coming years. "

John Ostergren, Chief Sustainability Officer at Smiths, said, "Smiths is excited to join Orgalim and is committed to working with other members to create the policy foundations for a more prosperous and competitive industrial technology sector in Europe, whilst delivering on our shared commitments to achieve Net Zero. This brings us a step closer to achieving Smiths' purpose of improving our world through smarter engineering."
